Q4/2025 Financial Results

We updated our estimates following WPM's Q4/25 financial results.

Q4/25 Financials In Line With NBCM; But Above Consensus

WPM reported adjusted EBITDA of US$732.0 mln, which was in line with NBCM Estimate at US$715 mln and above Consensus at US$655.3 mln.

2026 Guidance/Long-Term Outlook Unchanged

WPM reiterated its previously released 2026 guidance at 860,000-940,000 GEOs (NBCM: 886,073 GEOs at WPM-budgeted commodity prices). Production is forecasted to increase to 1.2 mln GEOs by 2030 (NBCM: 1.2 mln GEOs). WPM expects production to average over 1.2 mln GEOs from the period 2031-2035 (NBCM: 1.14 mln GEOs), more conservative due to development assumptions from pre-construction assets.

Focus Shifts to Deleveraging

WPM ended Q4 with US$1.15 bln in cash, US$1.05 bln in working capital and no debt. Following the previously announced US$4.3 bln acquisition of a silver stream on Antamina from BHP, we estimate US$2.25 bln in net debt (as of the end of Q1/26). We model US$2.1 bln of future capital commitments on previously negotiated acquisitions, funded from operating cash flow and available credit. Growth is supported by newly operating assets, including Blackwater, Mineral Park, Fenix, Hemlo, Goose and Platreef and importantly five development projects (Fenix, El Domo, Kurmuk and Koné, Curraghinalt) continue to advance towards production over the next 24 months, with implied returns of these streams well above those recently acquired in the market (Antamina, Hemlo and Spring Valley).

Reiterate O/P Rating and $245.00 Target (was $240.00)

We have incorporated Q4/25 financials and made minor changes to our near-term operating assumptions. Our Outperform rating is predicated on stable financial position and high-quality, low-cost long-life asset portfolio. WPM remains well positioned in a challenging deal environment within the royalty/streaming sector, as embedded organic growth supports improved returns relative to peers. Our target has come up slightly as we have adjusted our estimates based on operator guidance leading to slight increase in 2026 estimates.

Q4/25 Financial Results Overview

We updated our estimates to incorporate Wheaton Precious Metals' reported Q4/25 financial results, including Adj. EBITDA of US $732.0 mln, which compares with NBCM Estimates at US$715 mln and above Consensus at US$655.3 mln. Adj. EPS of US$1.22/share was in line with NBCM Estimate at US$1.20/share and above Consensus at US$1.02. The beat relative to NBCM Estimates reflects higher realized prices/stronger revenues. We suspect Consensus had not completely incorporated pre-released stream production/ sales.

We have previously incorporated pre-released production of 689,864 GEOs for 2025 which was higher than the upper end of the guidance range of 600,000-670,000 GEOs for the year, while sales stood at 651,311 GEOs. Approximately 156,800 GEOs were produced but not yet delivered, consistent with the average over the preceding four quarters and within the guided range of two to three months.

2026 and Long-Term Guidance Unchanged

- WPM expects 2026 GEOs production to be between 860,000-940,000 (NBCM: 949,607 GEOs; 886,073 GEOs at WPM Price Deck).
  - Growth will be driven by an addition of ~70,000 GEOs from the additional silver stream at Antamina; further contributions from newly operating assets, including Blackwater, Mineral Park, Fenix, Hemlo, Goose and Platreef are also forecast to support this growth.
  - These increases are expected to be partially offset by lower production from Constancia following the depletion of the Pampacancha pit in late December 2025.
  - When accounting for the BHP Antamina stream, 2026 guidance is in line with NBCM Estimates.
- Production is forecast to increase by ~50% to 1.2 mln GEOs by 2030 (NBCM: 1.08 mln GEOs; 1.21 mln GEOs at WPM Price Deck), due to growth from Antamina, Blackwater, Aljustrel, Marmato, Hemlo and Goose. Development assets that are in construction and/or various stages of ramp-up include Koné, Fenix, Kurmuk, Platreef, Mineral Park and El Domo projects; and pre-development assets include the Spring Valley, Copper World and Santo Domingo projects, all of which we expect to be sanctioned in 2026.
- From 2031 to 2035, attributable production is expected to be maintained at 1.2 mln GEOs annually (NBCM: Annual average of 1.04 mln GEOs from 2031-2035; 1.14 mln GEOs at WPM Price Deck) and incorporates additional incremental production from pre-development assets, including Cangrejos, Kudz ze Kayah and Marathon, in addition to the Mt. Todd and Black Pine royalties. We remain lower on account of more conservative ramp-up assumptions on several pre-development assets.

Balance Sheet Focused on Deleveraging

- WPM ended Q4 with US$1.15 bln in cash, US$1.05 bln in working capital and no debt.
- We had incorporated the US$4.3 bln acquisition of the 33.75% silver stream on Antamina from BHP in Q1/26. WPM expects to fund the Antamina deal through cash on hand, a new US$1.5 bln 2-Year Term Loan credit facility, and the existing US$2.0 bln RCF (of which ~ US$0.9 bln will be drawn).
- We model a US$1.5 bln draw on the new RCF and US$1.4 bln on the existing US$2.0 bln RCF in Q1/26 (with ~ US$0.9 bln owing on the RCF at the end of Q2/26). We model full repayment of all debt amounts owing in Q1/28, with WPM in a net cash position (assuming no additional acquisitions) by mid-2027. ND/EBITDA is expected to remain below 0.75x, and we see the company in a net cash position after all funding obligations by mid-2027 at current commodity prices.
- During Q4/25, WPM made total upfront cash payments of US$646 mln including US$300 mln on Hemlo, US$156 mln on Koné, US$50 mln each for Spring Valley and Fenix, US$44 mln each for El Domo and Kurmuk and US$2.0 mln for Kudz Ze Kayah.
  - Post quarter end, WPM made additional payment of US$50 mln on Spring Valley and US$40 mln on Marmato.

- Our Base Case incorporates US$2.1 bln (excl. Antamina Stream acquisition) in future funding commitments.
  - We model US$585.9 mln in funding commitments in 2026 (incl. US$260.0 mln for Spring Valley, US$300.0 mln for Hemlo, US $156.3 mln for Kone and US$87.8 mln for El Domo, and US$81.9 mln for Marmato).
  - We model US$521.9 mln in funding commitments in 2027 incl. US$180.0 mln payment for Spring Valley, US$130.0 mln For Santo Domingo, US$50.0 mln for Marathon, US$131.4 mln for Copper World amd US$21.9 mln for El Domo

Reiterating Our Outperform Rating at $245.00 Target (was $240.00)

We incorporated Q4/25 financial results which were broadly in line with NBCM Estimates but above Consensus. We have adjusted our near-term estimates and had earlier incorporated US$4.3 bln acquisiti9on of the 33.75% silver stream on Antamina from BHP. We remain in line with the company's 2026 guidance and somewhat conservative compared to WPM on long-term production guidance.

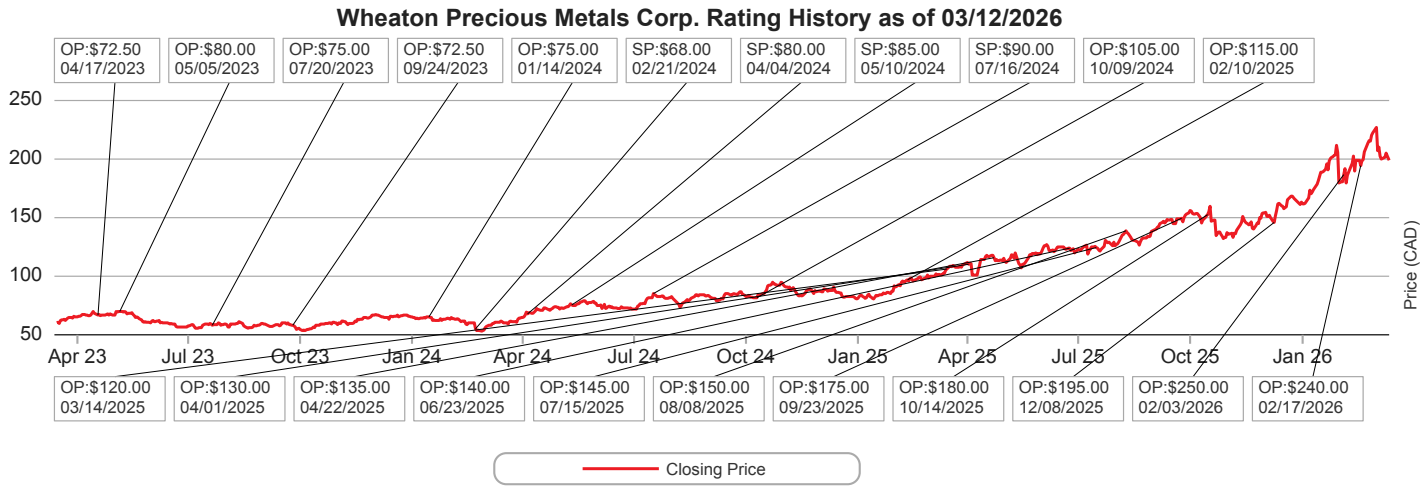

Our $245.00 (was $240.00) target price is now based on a weighted multiple of 2.50x NAV (33%) + 25.0x EV/2026E CF (33%) + 25.0x EV/2027 CF (33%) (was 2.50x NAV (33%) + 26.0x EV/2026E CF (33%) + 26.0x EV/2027 CF (33%)). We have reduced our cash flow multiples modestly given recent volatility in precious metal prices (spot prices below our current US$5,200/oz gold and US$100/oz silver estimates for H1/26 in NBCM Base Case) and increased financial leverage (albeit temporary) following the US$4.3 bln acquisition.

Our Outperform rating is predicated on WPM's strong financial position and high-quality, low-cost long-life asset portfolio. WPM remains well positioned in a challenging deal environment within the royalty/streaming sector, as embedded organic growth supports an improved outlook with several projects reaching production over the next two years (all acquired in a meaningfully lower gold price environment).

WPM is currently trading at 2.47x NAV compared to NBCM Senior Royalty peers FNV at 2.19x and RGLD at 1.81x.

RISKS:

Tax/Regulatory: As a royalty and streaming company, Wheaton is subject to various tax and regulatory risks. Streaming income earned by foreign subsidiaries may be subject to revisions in either domestic or foreign laws governing taxation/transfer pricing.

Non-Operator: By not operating the assets within its royalty portfolio, Wheaton does not directly control the production or development of each asset and delays in the forecasted production schedule could negatively impact revenue and indirectly impact the valuation of the company.

Commodity Prices: By purchasing streaming and royalty interests, Wheaton's cash flow is levered to fluctuations in commodity prices, primarily gold as well as silver and cobalt.
